

FEDERAL EXPERTS SAY BEEHIVE OVENS WASTE $40,000,000

That Is Their Estimate of
Loss of By-Products
During 1914.

REPORT COKE OUTPUT OF YEAR

Figures for Entire Country Reach
31,555,911 Tons; Slump in Trade Affects By-Product Plants Less Than Those Having Beehive Ovens in Use.

While Germany is carefully conserving her resources by cooking her fuel output in by-product ovens to save the valuable tar, ammonia, gas, and benzol, the United States is literally throwing away these useful products to the value of millions of dollars annually by the continued use of the wasteful beehive oven, says the United States Geological Survey.

In 1914 the total output of coke in the United States was 31,555,911 short tons, valued at $88,334,127. Of this 23,335,971 tons was made in beehive ovens, with an almost total loss of the by-products, and 8,219,940 short tons was produced in by-product ovens, with a recovery of over $17,500,000 worth of by-products, or approximately $1.55 for each ton of coke. As there were over 23,000,000 tons of beehive coke made in 1914, and as the yield of coal in coke is less in beehive ovens than in by-product ovens, the loss of by-products from coal made into coke in the beehive ovens in 1914 was not less than $10,000,000. The slump in coke and other basic metal smelting following the declaration of war last August was directly responsible for a marked decrease in the coke production in the Rocky Mountain states.

Compared with 1913 the decrease in coke output was 11,713,416 tons, or 25 per cent in quantity, and $40,608,556, or 31.5 per cent in value. This beehive and by-product coke did not suffer equally in the decrease, the former falling off 10,248,550 tons, or 30.5 per cent in quantity, and $10,030,351, or 37 per cent in value, as compared with a decrease in by-product coke of 1,464,757 tons, or 11.8 per cent in quantity, and $10,577,685, or 22 per cent in value.

Three states, Kentucky, Ohio, and Washington, showed increases. These increases were all due to the operation of by-product plants, the building of which was begun in 1912 and 1913. The principal decreases were: Pennsylvania, 8,195,951 tons; West Virginia, 1,041,799 tons; Virginia, 522,619 tons; Indiana, 359,373 tons; Illinois, 331,355 tons; and New York, 301,116 tons.

At the end of 1914 there were 29,755 ovens in the United States, of which 5,809 were by-product ovens, and 23,946 were beehive. Of the by-product ovens 667, or 11.5 per cent, were idle throughout the year, and 14,450, or 17.3 per cent of the beehive ovens were idle. At the end of 1914 there were under construction 619 new by-product ovens and 1,065 new beehive ovens. During the year 34 by-product ovens were abandoned, all of which it is expected will be replaced by others of the retort or distillation type, and 3,403 beehive ovens were also abandoned.

Heat a Menace to Lives of Old Folks

Sickness and Misery Are Caused by Constipation
In Hot Weather.

People of advancing years should be very careful of their health during the hot months. One has only to follow the mortality record of elderly people as reported in the papers, to realize that these are the hardest months of the year for them.

It is most important to the maintenance of health and vigor at this time to avoid constipation, with its accompanying headache and muscular and blood congestion. This can be best accomplished by the timely use of a gentle laxative, such as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, an ideal remedy that is pleasant to the taste, does not irritate in its action and does not gripes. Its tonic properties build up and strengthen the system.

Elderly people should avoid strong spices, cathartics, purgatives, and pills as these afford only temporary relief and are a shock to the en-the system. In every home a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin should always be on hand. It is inexpensive and can be obtained in any drug store. For a free trial bottle write to Dr. Caldwell, 153 Washington St., Monticello, Ill.

ERUPTION ON HEAD DISFIGURED BABY

Ashamed to Take Her Out. Itching All the Time. Hair Came Out Until Bald. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. In Two Weeks Healed.

508 S. Hancock St., Philadelphia, Pa.—"It was about two weeks after baby was born that all of her little head was just like a weeping sore eruption. Then it got all like thick scales and was so bad that I had to put a cap on her all the time. It was an awful look at that. I was ashamed to take her out and it disfigured her awfully. It was itching her all the time and she tried to scratch it and when she could not she would rub her little head on the pillow. Every time a little of the hard crust came off the hair came off with it until she was bald headed. She was awful cross and kept me as dead as night. I sent for a few samples of Cuticura Soap and Ointment. The sample box cleared her head of the crust and then I bought a box of Cuticura Ointment and some Cuticura Soap and in two weeks her head was healed." (Signed) Mrs. Yates, August 12, 1914.

Sample Each Free by Mail With 32-c. Skin Book on request. Address postpaid "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston." Sold throughout the world.

CANNOT AROUSE STATE VOTERS

Suffragists and "Antis" Both Have Troubles.

ELECTORS ARE INDIFFERENT

Woman-like, Each Side Is Taking Comfort Out of Situation and Says It Presages a Triumph—Apathy May Be Due to War and Other Counter Interests.

Philadelphia, Aug. 10.—Whether it is due to war excitement or some other cause the advocates of woman's suffrage and those opposed to suffrage are both finding it difficult to arouse the state's big issue that will be decided at the polls in November. Speechmaking is going on in various counties of the state, the suffrage association has a liberty bell that is being motored from place to place, and both camps are issuing literature on the subject. But somehow the great body of electors are giving little heed to all these efforts. In fact they seem unconcerned and indifferent as to the fate of the amendment.

Suffrage workers are not discouraged at the present condition of apathy among the voters. They say that it indicates sure victory in that the voters are taking it for granted that the amendment will go through and feel there is no necessity for midsummer excitement over a sure result. On the other hand the "antis" see defeat for suffrage in the existing situation. Leading women opposed to suffrage contend that it never carried in a state where the issue did not predominate in the minds of the voters; that the electors are giving no attention to it because they are not interested in it. Then these "antis" follow out this line of reasoning by stating that nobody votes for a thing he is not interested in.

GAME LAWS MADE PLAIN

Rabbits and Squirrels Cannot be Sold According to Law Enacted.

Philadelphia, Aug. 10.—The last legislature passed a game law, introduced by Representative Phillips, of Clearfield, which specifically forbids the sale of rabbits and squirrels killed in the state, and forbids the shipping of all game except when accompanied by a license.

The new law prohibits the ownership, transfer, sale or transportation of furbes except under license which will only be granted by the game commission for good reasons. It forbids the taking of deer in any way except by the use of a rifle or gun shooting only one bullet and forbids the trapping of deer in any way. It prevents hunting for hire, by making it illegal for any man paid as a guide or in any other way as a hunter to give, sell or present game of any kind to his employer and similarly forbids the employer receiving game from such employee or guide. It fixes the game season as follows:

Squirrels of all kinds, grouse, woodcock, quail, wild turkey, grouse, quail or ring-neck or English pheasant, black birds, Hungarian quail—October 15 to November 30, inclusive.

Rabbits and hares—November 1 to December 30.

Deer—December 1 to December 15. Bear—October 15 to December 15. Haccoon—October 15 to December 31.

It fixes the bag limits as follows:

	Per Day	Per Week	Per Season
Wild Turkey	1	1	1
Deer (male)	1	1	1
Bear	1	1	1
Grouse	5	20	30
Quail	2	10	10
Woodcock	10	20	20
Hungarian Quail	4	10	20
Ring Neck	4	10	20
Squirrels	5	20	10
Rabbits	10	30	60
Hare	3	15	30

Ring-neck pheasants raised strictly in captivity may be killed by their owners on their own premises during the open season without regard to number.

It is made unlawful to shoot at any doe or fawn, the penalty being the same as that provided if the deer is killed and similarly the wounding or killing in any manner of female deer and fawns is forbidden.

BIRTHDAY PARTY FOR HORSE.

Prince Grant, as Guest of Honor, Has an Orchestra Too.

Mrs. M. K. Grant, one of the wealthiest women in Winston, Del., gave a party in honor of the fourteenth birthday of her pet carriage horse, Prince Grant. The affair took place in the stable, where a luncheon was served to the stablemen, the household servants of the Grant family being at their command. An orchestra furnished music.

The horse, a roan gelding, with a tawny mark of 2 1/2, has been in possession of Mrs. Grant since it was a colt. Prince Grant shared in the celebration to the extent of eating four plates of ice cream, six plates of cake and a box of candy. He was nicely decorated with ribbons.

Every year since the horse was three years old Mrs. Grant has celebrated his birthday.

Odd Happenings In the Day's News

PRICES SHOW DECREASES TO ALL BUT THE CONSUMER.

Vegetables Plentiful, but Figures Show That Middlemen Get Profits.

An investigation of produce market conditions made by the New York Sun shows that not in years have vegetables been so plentiful as now and so cheap—for everybody but the consumer.

Potatoes sell at $1 a barrel wholesale, as against $4.25 a barrel a year ago. At retail they bring from 10 to 12 1/2 cents a quart, or at the rate of $3.20 and $4 a bushel and $8 and $10 a barrel. Tomatoes sell at wholesale for from 25 to 75 cents a cante and to the housewife at the rate of four for 10 cents. Onions have been bringing 25 cents a bushel wholesale, as compared with $1 last year.

Commission men blame the retailers for their failure to adjust prices to the advantage of the consumer. Neither the consumer nor the farmer is benefitting from the huge crops and low wholesale prices. Between the 84 cents a barrel received by New Jersey producers for potatoes and the rate of $10 a barrel paid by small consumers the unusual possibilities of high finance.

It shows that the net result of several years of agitation for cheaper farm produce has been merely to make matters worse for the housekeeper. It also shows that all the "farm to the table" movements have not accomplished their purpose.

The remedy for this inequality of produce prices has not yet been found. Whether a method of distribution just and equitable to all concerned can be devised remains a problem.

PROPOSES A NEW CALENDAR.

Twenty-eight Days in a Month, With All Holidays on Monday.

The Rev. H. P. Haines, curate of All Angels' Episcopal church, New York city, has a proposal to change the calendar which he says several influential clergymen favor. Novel features of this Haines calendar provide that all the holidays shall come on Monday.

This, he says, will give the three main whole days and a half of rest. Again, there will be only twenty-eight days in each month, and the remaining days will be put into another month, named "Holiday," which will come in between June and July. The extra day still unprovided for—two in leap year—will be put at the end of December for more holidays.

"The fact that each month will begin on Sunday and end on Saturday will go far toward regulating our haphazard method of present day computation," said Mr. Haines. "Also joy will be felt by the trader and the social set alike that Easter will be uniformly the third Sunday in April instead of following the vagaries of the wandering moon from early in March to late in April. Another convenience is that Christmas will always arrive in the middle of the week."

Mr. Haines said his innovation had been based in part on the church calendar.

"It is not new to change the calendar," he went on. "It is not so hard, either. People whose birthdays come after the twenty-eighth of the month will have to change them, but the others will not be affected. The extra day may come in at the end of the year or not. It will not matter, for no one will have to work on it."

THE MAN IN THE BOX.

He Started but Did Not Unnerve the Express Car Messenger.

The messenger was alone in the express car, and the train was making fast time about 200 miles outside of San Francisco. At the last stop the messenger had been very sorry to see an ordinary rough box loaded from the truck. The experience was common enough, but it always depressed him a little.

Having set things to rights, he sat down near his little writing desk and dropped into a doze. A sudden lurch of the train roused him, and, as he stretched himself awake, what was his consternation at seeing that the lid of the rough box was lifted about three inches.

Express messengers live in daily expectation of train robbers, and the thought flashed through his mind in the twinkling of an eye that one of those gentry was in the box.

As he got up from his chair he was relieved to see the lid quietly drop into its place. However, he knew that the thought was no doubt watching his every movement from a hole bored in the side of the box and that what he did he must do cautiously.

Moving out of the hidden man's range of vision, he got his hands on a pair of nails and a hammer. Then he slowly worked his way through the lofty pile of packages, which he pretended to be rearranging, suddenly threw a heavy tank on the lid of the rough box, jumped outside it and nailed down the lid securely. The imprisoned robber cowered and struggled, but to no avail.

The messenger rushed to the rear of his car and looked back through the coaches. He could see the man's confederates "going through" the passengers, who held their hands aloft when a member of the gang "covered" them. The express car carried a valuable shipment, and the messenger determined to avenge it.

Gripping the lever that operated the automatic coupler, he put every ounce of strength he possessed into one terrific jerk. The drawheads parted, and a snap almost instantly opened between the express car and the coaches. Rounding back through his car, barring the door as he went, the messenger reached the front door and shouted to the engineer to open his throttle. The engine and the express car leaped forward, but not a minute too soon.

The bandits, emerging from the coaches, were insane with rage when they saw themselves foiled and poured out after volleys from their rifles into the fast flying car.

From the next station a coach and engine with a posse armed to the teeth went back to the relief of the stalled train, from which the bandits had long since fled. The express car and engine, under a heavy police guard, proceeded to San Francisco. The bandit was unhinged at the police station, and an ugly looking customer he proved to be. He got a sentence of twenty years in the penitentiary.—Wells-Fargo Messenger.

WRECKED THE THEATER.

When London Playgoers Rose Against an Increase in Prices.

There occurred in London something over a hundred years ago a series of riots called the "O. P. riots," which grew out of an increase in theater prices.

In 1820, after Covent Garden theater had been burned to the ground and rebuilt, it was reopened under the management of John Kemble, one of the Kemble family of great actors, with an increased scale of admission prices.

The new theater was all right, and Kemble was popular, but the theater-going public resented the increase of prices.

On the opening night when Kemble, who was to play Macbeth, attempted to make an explanatory speech he was booed down by demands for "old prices," and right after eight people crowded the house, danced on the seats and interrupted the players with cries of "O. P.," old prices.

The disturbance continued for several weeks, the people wearing "O. P." badges and displaying big "O. P." placards. The theater was closed for several days, but when it was opened the trouble began again. Seats were destroyed and windows broken.

Legal proceedings were taken and failed. The municipal authorities, assisted by a governor of the Bank of England, finally brought about a compromise.—Philadelphia Press.

Animated Scenery.

Of sanctuaries for the eighteenth century drama the value of the center must not be overlooked. As long as the actor was in the bounds of the playhouse he was safe. There was John Palmer, for instance, who lived in his dressing room at Drury Lane for months. But engagements, even at Drury Lane, come to an end, and at length Palmer was required at the Haymarket. The journey was a dangerous one. Necessity, however, always fosters invention. They packed him in a cabinet, put the cabinet in a cart and called him "scenery."

Wasn't the Uniform.

A sailor under the influence of liquor went to the main entrance of a New York theater recently and presented a ticket. The manager refused to admit him, telling him that his money would be refunded at the box office.

"Don't you respect y' country's uniform?" asked the bilious one.

"Sure," retorted the manager. "Take it off and I'll put it in a stage box," Philadelphia Ledger.

Infallible.

"Do you believe that there is really something which can invariably tell when a man is lying?"

"I know it."

"Ah, perhaps you have seen one of the instruments?"

"Seen one? I married one."—Houghton Post.

Boys Who Took Part in a College Commencement.

Sons of Princeton graduates of the class of 1910 had a fine time at the recent commencement exercises of that university. Of course they are pretty small boys, but that did not detract from the enjoyment they had nor the pleasure they gave to the older folks. The little fellows were dressed in Turkish costumes and took part in the parade around the campus. They attracted a great deal of attention from the spectators and were generally acclaimed the best bit of the day. The photograph shows two of the little fellows, who are decorated with the figures "1910," which denotes the year in which their fathers were graduated.

Game of Initials.

Provide a pack of cards upon which the letters of the alphabet have been conspicuously printed. There should be but one letter on each card and more than one alphabet will be needed. Four or five would not be too many, but Q, X and Z may be omitted.

Choose a leader and have him sit where he can be plainly seen by all. He must put the pack of cards face down on a table before him, or on a book on his lap. He then calls for the name of some general, novelist, country or city, or any object he pleases, beginning with the letter which he turns up from the pack and holds up for all to see, reading it distinctly as he does so. He must name the object required before turning up the card.

Whoever in the company first names the object called for receives the card. When the cards have all been used the person holding the most has won the game. For example, the leader says, "Name a state of the Union beginning with"—here he turns up a card—"the letter 'D.'" Some one cries "Delaware" and receives the card.

"Name one of Scott's characters beginning with F."

"Name one of Dickens' novels beginning with G."

"Name a famous general beginning with G."

And so on. In case no one can give an answer the card is returned to the bottom of the pack.

Three Puzzle Birds.

Each of the following stanzas is to be completed by adding at the end of the fourth line the name of the bird described in the preceding three lines. The stars show the number of letters in the name which must rime with the second line:

What bird is fabled to bring pleasant weather?

And every sailor boy is his well wisher?

This coat in gay with many a bright hue'd feather.

This bird is called *****

What bird is ever prophesying rain?

Though oft his prophecies fall flat?

"More wet!" he cries; "More wet, more wet!" he wails.

Do you know the ****?

What bird is he whose humming charms the ear?

And yet whose voice perhaps is seldom heard?

This humming phrase like gems with brilliant clear.

This is the  Answers.—Kingfisher, quail, hummingbird.

Some Facts About Birds.

Birds are covered with feathers because they need a covering that, while it will keep them warm, will also be light, so that it will not prevent them from flying.

Ostriches have small wings because their legs are long, and the wings are not needed for running. They are only used to steady the body while running.

Birds have sharp beaks because they have no teeth, and the beak seizes, holds and divides their food.

Birds that swim under water have web feet because the spreading out of the toes of the bird brings the thin membrane between the toes into the shape of a fin, and by striking this fin against the water the bird moves itself along.

SOISSON THEATRE

"THE HEART OF A PAINTED WOMAN."—A five part motion picture production, adapted from the original story of the same name, has been put into motion pictures by the Popular Plays and Players Company, and comes to the Soisson Theatre today. Miss Olga Petrova, one of the stage's most brilliant and versatile stars, has been in the principal role supported by an admirable cast of well known players.

This is Miss Petrova's second appearance under the banner of the Popular Plays and Players Company, the first appearance having been made in "The Tigris." "The Heart of a Painted Woman" comes to the Soisson today, and is on the Metro program.

COLONIAL THEATRE

"BETTY IN SEARCH OF A THRILL."—Betty in Search of a Thrill is notable for the appearance of Elsie Janis in a double role—that of author as well as star. She tells it as well as she plays it. A convent school heiress braves the whirlpools of New York's brilliant Broadway life in search of a thrill for "experience," and through her innocence becomes involved in a serious predicament from which she is snatched in the nick of time by a startling surprise which astonishes Betty as much as it will the audience. "Betty in Search of a Thrill" is an early release of Paramount, Incorporated, and will present a part of the Paramount Program at the Colonial today.
